

XVIVO Wins 2025 SACC-USA Business Award

Honored for life-saving innovation and growth in the U.S. market

[Washington D.C., USA, June 13, 2025.] — XVIVO, a pioneering Swedish MedTech company, has received the 2025 SACC-USA Business Award. The announcement was made at the prestigious Swedish American Chamber of Commerce USA (SACC-USA) Executive Forum held on June 12 at the House of Sweden in Washington, D.C.

SACC-USA established the award to recognize fast-growing, innovative Swedish companies significantly impacting the U.S. market. XVIVO was selected for its impressive growth and groundbreaking contributions to global organ transplantation.

“With exceptional growth in a highly competitive market, particularly in a time of global uncertainty, XVIVO has demonstrated that Swedish innovations also save lives,” said André Persson, Chair of the SACC-USA Business Awards Jury. “Their commitment to advancing organ transplantation showcases Swedish excellence and delivers real-world impact on a global scale.”

Founded in Gothenburg, Sweden, in 1998, XVIVO is committed to addressing the global organ shortage through cutting-edge technologies for organ preservation and perfusion. XVIVO’s solutions enable transplant teams to better preserve, transport, and assess donor organs—significantly improving transplant outcomes and increasing patient survival rates. The company established its U.S. operations in the early 2010s, with its U.S. headquarters in Englewood, Colorado.

Kristoffer Nordström, CFO at XVIVO accepted the award on behalf of the company.

“This prestigious award is more than a recognition of our business growth – it’s a testament to what’s possible when science, purpose, and persistence come together,” said Nordström. “Every day, we work hard to push the boundaries of what is possible in MedTech to give patients a second chance at life and ensure that nobody should die waiting for a new organ. We’re proud to represent Swedish innovation on the global stage, and we’re honored to have our work in the U.S. market recognized through the SACC-USA Business Award.”

The award was presented by Peter Fellman, Editor-in-Chief of Dagens Industri and Business Manager at Bonnier News Business, who also serves on the SACC-USA Business Award jury.

“For the third consecutive year, we are proud to present this award, celebrating the exceptional quality of Swedish SMEs thriving in the U.S. market,” said Peter Fellman, Chief Editor of Dagens Industri and jury member for the SACC USA Business Award. “This year’s winner, XVIVO, exemplifies Swedish excellence in healthcare and MedTech innovation, giving patients a second chance at life and ensuring that no one should die waiting for a new organ. On top of that, XVIVO has demonstrated remarkable growth here in the USA,” he added.

The 2025 SACC-USA Business Awards jury included business leaders and representatives from both Sweden and the U.S. The award is part of SACC-USA’s broader mission to strengthen transatlantic ties and celebrate Swedish entrepreneurship in the world’s largest economy.

Jury Statement – SACC-USA Business Award 2025:

On behalf of the jury, I am proud to recognize XVIVO as the recipient of the 2025 SACC-USA Business Award. XVIVO stands out not only for its impressive growth in the competitive U.S. market, but for its life-saving innovations in organ preservation and transplantation. The company exemplifies the strength of Swedish ingenuity and the power of purpose-driven business. In a time of increasing global health challenges, XVIVO has shown that scalable solutions from Sweden can change lives across borders. Their expansion in the United States is a testament to the strength of their offering and their ability to adapt to demanding international markets. XVIVO is a worthy ambassador of Swedish SME excellence and a true leader in MedTech. We congratulate them on this well-deserved recognition.
